

LANGUAGES IN CRISIS

NATIONAL LANGUAGES SUMMIT

Calling for simple, effective measures to utilise and develop our national language capacity

National Press Club, Canberra

7 June 2007, 10am-1pm

FEATURING

PROFESSOR MICHAEL WORTON – Vice-Provost (Academic and International) and Professor of French at University College London, proponent of compulsory foreign language qualifications for university entrance in the United Kingdom.

MAJOR MICHAEL STONE – recently featured on the ABC's Australian Story program, served in 2006 as an interpreter, negotiator, community liaison, spokesman and facilitator of peace for the Australian Army in East Timor.

- > A range of other prominent speakers will participate in a roundtable-style discussion with key professionals in the field.
- > A Group of Eight research paper will be launched on the day.
- > The Summit will be open to the public at no charge.

BOOKINGS ESSENTIAL. Contact Sarah Howard at the Academy of the Humanities, sarah.howard@humanities.org.au, or phone (02) 6125 1058.

More information is available at www.humanities.org.au | www.go8.edu.au.